Editorial

Broadsword issue 58

Note to Broadsword readers.

This issue of Broadsword was written, then re-written during a particularly turbulent few months in early 2020. Some articles were changed, others were moth-balled for later use, the rapidly changing face of British politics and social tensions is continuing to impact on British society.

Since the last issue of Broadsword the United Kingdom has gone through a number of political and geo-political upheavalss that should prove to be useful to British Movement and our movement's long term goals.

The General Election of December 2019; the official 'Brexit' from the European Union at the end of January 2020, surely a blow against globalisation and internationalism; and the outbreak of Coronavirus, which is surely a significant symbol of the dangerous nature of globalism and One Worldism.

The Covid-19 lockdown and the resulting social and economic effect on the British and World economy has yet to play its full hand.

Conservative austerity policies will pale into insignificance as the full impact on the UK domestic economy, the jobs market and social welfare really bites in the winter months of at the end of 2020.

Meanwhile the emergence of 'Black Lives Matter' on the streets of Britain, together with the political and media support shown to 'BLM' in the face of the majority of the indigenous British population will we are sure result in both rejection and a "White Backlash".

As minorities in Britain dictate to the majority unease and anger will surely build.

All of the above create prime conditions for National Socialist and racial Nationalism.

 Note to the 'researchers' at "Hope Not Hate". According to the experts at HNH in their rambling publication "State of Hate 2020" , British Movement has ceased publishing BROADSWORD magazine. Really ? Since that expert opinion went to print we published issue 57 and here is issue 58. 'Hope Not Hate' - Got it wrong - AGAIN.

British History, Heritage, Culture and Tradition Under Attack By Cultural Marxism

The self-styled 'Black Lives Matter' movement has become the latest fashion for black radicals, liberals, Cultural Marxists, Anarchists and fellow travellers.

'BLM' has provided a rallying point for all shades of the political Left, a radical outlet for "White Guilt" and an excuse for mass street protests in defiance of the Covid-19 lockdown and social distancing regulations.

More than that 'BLM' has opened the door for the street activists of the revolutionary Left to stage direct action attacks on institutions, monuments and the police in the name of " racial justice", but in reality to entrench Cultural Marxist attitudes in the BAME (Black Asian Minority Ethnic) communities in the UK and elsewhere in Europe and the USA.

The 'Black Lives Matter' movement has received a free ride in its treatment by the mainstream media as TV and radio presenters have fallen over themselves to take sides and align themselves with the perceived racial under-dogs.

Moreover a slew of celebrities from the entertainment world and sports personalities have readily identified with 'BLM' posing for the obligatory "Take the Knee" photo-opportunity and grand gesture cash donations to 'BLM' funds. Internationally 'BLM" is the fastest growing Marxist front organisation in the USA, Britain and Western Europe. The threat to our way of life is very real.

Facing the Threats to British Unity

The General Election result in December 2019 and the Covid-19 crisis have exposed deep flaws in the liberal democracy that controls the United Kingdom. Two key areas of serious threat to the unity of our country are set to be exploited by those who would divide and rule our country in the name of 'democratic socialism'.

The first divide is Scotland where the Scottish National Party (SNP) is campaigning to severe Scotland from the historic Union. The second is Ulster where Sinn Fein and other left of centre parties are seeking to use Brexit and their electoral gains in December 2019 to split Northern Ireland from the UK and to finally fulfill the Irish republican dream of a united Ireland.

Under cover of the Covid-19 emergency there has been a creeping programme of political campaigning by the assorted political parties and pressure groups of the Left to quietly undermine national unity and to obstruct the government timetable for Brexit.

Nowhere is this more obvious than Scotland where First Minister Nicola Sturgeon has been trying to dominate the news media with press conferences about dealing with the corona virus crisis, but presenting Scotland's response as the first stages in taking Scotland out of the United Kingdom and becoming an independent country remaining in the European Union.

Sturgeon and the SNP have used the Covid-19 crisis as an opportunity for political theatre and media manipulation to give the impression that the Scottish government has been successfully operating separately from Westminster and is therefore half-way to independence anyway.

The lock down situation resulting from the Covid-19 crisis has prevented any kind of traditional political activity or protests on the streets and it remains to be seen how and when British Nationalist organisations will be able to effectively campaign against these threats to the Union of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.

Counter-Terrorism, PREVENT and the State Scare Tactics.

Many times before in the pages of Broadsword, usually in articles in the Werewolf Column, we have commented and observed on the activities of the insidious PREVENT programme and its role in controlling fringe political opposition and particularly its role in countering racial Nationalism in all its manifestations on the British political scene.

The Covid-19 crisis has provided the State with new opportunities to increase police powers of surveillance and to obstruct political protests. It remains to be seen how long the increased police powers will remain in force after the lifting of lock down restrictions. The police have always tried to hang on to new powers of public control and will resist any attempts to remove them.

In addition, the various political control agencies like PREVENT have used the corona virus emergency as an excuse to broaden their activities in the name of the 'national interest'. The threat posed to the official narrative by conspiracy theory advocates has been seized on by PREVENT as yet further 'evidence' of the growing "threat of the Far-Right " and populist campaigners.

As is often the case, certain anti-racist organisations have been feeding information to PREVENT through sympathetic politicians, usually Labour Party MP's and have encouraged the State to regard all those who have mounted on-line and social media challenges to the official story-line as being part of a wider 'Far-Right' threat.

This has become a catch-all agenda which covers every topic from reports on the Muslims failing to observe all the lock down restrictions, to alternative reports on the origins of Covid-19, to stories about illegal migrants entering the UK, to anti-vaccine or anti-5G campaigns.

Professional anti-racist organisations are seeking to make themselves indispensible to government agencies like PREVENT and hope to gain both in influence and financially by ingratiating themselves to PREVENT.

Where We Stand

British Movement Aims and Objectives

Building a British National Socialist Alternative Society

The priority objective for British Movement is to build a network of committed National Socialist activists and supporters across the United KIngdom.

The ultimate goal is the creation and development of a grassroots mass movement which can form the foundations of an alternative National Socialist Folk Community, eventually functioning as a parallel society to the decadent and declining multi-racial society in British towns and cities.

At the present time, British Movement exists as an extra-parliamentary poltical organisation and does not involve itself and its resources in contesting unwinnable electoral seats.

Under the current political system in the United KIngdom it is impossible to challenge the State and the Establishment through the electoral system, which is dominated by the controlling political parties which have massive financial and media support. Decades of operating a rotating two party arrangement has given domination to the Conservative and Labour parties, ensuring that minority parties cannot break the mould and new, radical political movements are contained and restricted to the political fringes.

If ever there was a lesson for British Nationalism into the mechanisms and machinations of the corrupt British parliamentary system, and how the establishment and unelected Whitehall mandarins protect their vested interests, it has been the ‘Brexit’ saga in the period between June 2016 and December 2019.

The reaction of the ‘Remain’ camp revealed the hollow fallacy of ‘liberal democracy’ and the tactics of those inside Parliament and those working in Whitehall departments to disrupt and stall the Brexit process. Powerful unelected groups worked outside Parliament to force a reversal of the referendum result or at least create a second referendum which could be manipulated in their favour. The role of former Prime Ministers, Tony Blair, Gordon Brown and John Major demonstrated how the establishment comes together to operate against the chice of the voting public.

All British racial Nationalists should look long and hard at the Brexit period and draw conclusions as to how the establishment and political mainstream would react to any manifestation of a racial Nationalist presence in the House of Commons and how those forces would operate to derail any potential for Nationalist policies. This is why British Movement operates as an extra-parliamentary organisation and considers that all BM political activity must focus on building up a National Socialist counter culture outside the political mainstream.

This is a long term strategy and our activists and supporters must be prepared to think and act with a view to a ‘Long March’.

There can be no doubt that our political opponents will watch our activities and attempt to disrupt our progress, but we must not be deterred .

British Movement’s objective is to build a credible and functioning British National Socialist counter culture across the United Kingdom; to challenge and prevent Scotland being taken out of the UK, to defend and protect Ulster as part of the UK, to maintain the Union.

British Movement wants to develop a National Socialist alternative in communities across the UK, filling in the gaps where mainstream political parties and local government fails to support the White British people.

Changing times require a new approach and British National Socialism can and will provide a new way of thinking for our Folk.

The White Towns Strategy

It is pointless trying to campaign in the multi-racial urban centres of England where non-whites make up a large percentage of the population of some districts and neighbourhoods. Better to campaign in majority-White populated towns outside the urban metropolitan areas, semi-rural market towns and coastal resorts.

In the larger towns and conurbations campaigns should focus effort on White dominated neighbourhoods, White working-class districts and White majority housing estates.

The White Towns strategy is best geared towards campaigns in England and South Wales, the population demographics in Scotland and Northern Ireland demanded a different approach, with the exception of some districts of Glasgow and Edinburgh.

Obviously in Northern Ireland those towns and districts dominated by Irish Republicans and Irish Nationalist paramilitaries should be avoided as much as areas of English and Welsh towns and cities dominated by non-whites.

The White Towns strategy allows for the public distribution of British Movement literature to a target population without drawing the hostile response of large numbers of non-whites. Equally it avoids the over-reaction by the police towards BM propaganda teams by officers seeking to ‘protect community cohesion’.

Isolated White communities within the inner cities and urban centres can be offered a life-line of support by other strategies and British Movement does not intend to abandon those White British trapped in urban enclaves and surrounded by non-white colonists.

The Activist

" We want to attract those few thousand people who make a country tick. A few thousand is not many in absolute terms, but a few thousand of such importance , sharing the same thoughts and methods, represent the potential for revolution."

The above extract, geared to the political thinking of the 1980's translated from French, has some value today in a British NS context. However British Movement would argue that in the initial period of building up the NS counter culture, it is not "a few thousand people who make a country tick", who are needed, but a few hundred people who make their local community or local town tick. There is a real need for grass roots political activity, community based events and projects which generate interest and support for the NS approach. It is through the activities of British Movement groups like the 'Strength Through Joy' agenda, the BMWD 'Vixens' and the Young Wolf youth section that community interest can be generated and useful support from a wider general public can be generated. It is a fact that more people will support BM projects physically, financially and materially than will actually join the Movement. We need to develop that support because those are the foundations of our Folk community.

The Old Days and the Old Ways.

For British racial Nationalists of the post-1960's era the traditional strategy for making an impact on the general public and for building support was the tactic of 'March and Grow'. As with all political activities on the streets of the United Kingdom, from all parts of the political spectrum, the State has observed and monitored those activities. Whenever and wherever such activities have been seen to make an impact, have been recognised as developing some element of challenge to the political establishment, then the State has reacted by framing new restrictive legislation, has increased police powers and has adapted methods of surveiilance and official obstruction to undermine the perceived threat to the status quo. The media of course is then 'spoon-fed' the official line of argument that the street activities, marches, demonstrations and protests were in fact damaging social stability, or threatening social cohesion or were showing the potential to attract violent, revolutionary elements or even potential terrorists.

In recent years the police nationally have added more sophisticated methods of survelliance to their range of tactics, the use of digital imagery has allowed the political police to study footage of demonstrations in close detail with facial recognition software adding to their ability to identify and catalogue activists and organisers. This strategy was best exemplified in the nationalist demonstrations at Dover in 2016, when months after the event police across the country were harrassing and arresting assorted nationalists who had been at Dover.

Given the over reaction of the state towards public demonstrations of all political shades, but especially in light of the increased state hostility towards any gatherings which might be interpreted as being 'racist' or 'Islamaphobic', British racial Nationalists must seek new ways of attracting mass support on the streets and perhaps consign the old ways of 'March and Grow' to being a thing of the old days

ANS 1990. (Working Plan East)

I FOUGHT THE LAW AND THE LAW WON

On all public activities, no matter how large or small, BM activists must bear in mind that the forces of the state are generally hostile to racial Nationalist and National Socialist politics and no matter how legal, lawful or law-abidng those activities are, the agencies of the state will seek to disrupt or prevent those activities taking place.

Moreover, individual police officers are prone to interpreting the law according to their own personal belief systems and attitudes, time and again this has been proven to be the case. Therefore it is pointless trying to argue with a hostile or provocative police officer that you are actually in the right, he or she will simply use your refusal to comply with a police officer’s direct instruction as being in breach of some element of the Public Order Act (1986) or similar and you will be arrested and the political activity disrupted.

Even if the charges against you are later over turned in court, the police officer achieved his original aim in disrupting or preventing your activity. Better to comply with the unreasonable (or unlawful?) order in the first place and move off to a different location to resume the activity for however long it can be maintained.

Do not forget that police tactics to disrupt so-called ‘Far-Right’ activity includes inflicting the assorted inconvenience and disruptions to life, as arrest and/or court appearances, even if the police officer actually knows that his/her actions are not lawful, their initial objective to get you off the streets is what counts.

MUSLIM GROOMING GANGS
No End in Sight

Since the first report and some convictions back in 2003. Not much has changed. Still no protection for our underage girls. Even now in 2020 there are still gangs of Muslims in court for raping and abusing white girls as young as 11.

These gangs have operated for decades and most of these predators think they are untouchable. The police and the local authorities who were and are still responsible for the protection of these young white girls still only deal with the aftermath and still have nothing in place to stop it happening again and again.

The local authorities and police in early reports about these types of cases always seemed to blame the victim as "they chose this lifestyle". A child does not choose to be plied with drugs and alcohol and then to be raped by men over and over again. These same authorities and police forces also did not want offend these minority groups by appearing to be racist but these are racist crimes against young white girls.

Just another thing that proves multi-culturalism will never work.

Thursday 13th December will go down as the day when ordinary Britons put an end to the Brexit battle. We had voted to leave the EU in 2016, but powerful forces had frustrated our democratic decision until this day.

Campaigning Against the Grooming Gangs

Challenging the Poisonous By-product of a Multi-cultural Society

The media reluctantly refers to the majority of 'Grooming gang' defendants as being of "British-Pakistani heritage", convenently ignoring the facts the some of those involved in these organised sex gangs are of Afghan, East African or Middle-Eastern ethnic origins.
The reality is that the vast majority are Muslims, culturally they represent different Islamic traditions and sub-groups, but all operating in a deliberate rejection of British laws, a rejection of British values, and a total disregard for the welfare or safety of the under age girls they abuse. To these men the White British girls they rape and traffic are pieces of meat to be treated as sex-objects to be used and traded with other men in their communities, the values and opinions of the White British community counts for nothing.
British Movement rejects the multi-cultural, multi-faith, liberal politics that have created the toxic community structures that have allowed the Muslim grooming-gang situation to develop in Britain.
So-called 'feminists' struggle to balance their leftist-liberal politics with their notions of community cohesion and 'cultural sensitivity'. They fear to speak out against the alien traditions and religious beliefs which motivate the Muslim grooming gangs, but offer half-hearted support for the groomed and abused girls, as victims of 'male aggression'.
This ignores the weakness of liberal feminism and the underlying multi-cultuturalist fear of being deemed to be 'racist' for opposing unacceptable cultural values amongst immigrant communities.
Respect for women and girls is a long standing element within National Socialist ideology and women and girls have a long established role in the National Socialist struggle across the decades in Europe and in British politics.
In the words of the 1930's German National Socialist woman's activist Guida Diehl,

> " The truly Germanic woman is a fighter, and fights from mother-love....... The equality of woman consists in her receiving, in those spheres of life alloted her by Nature, the esteem which is her due."

This concept of esteem for women is neither understand by, nor accepted by Islamic culture. The hard won rights of British women and the role of women and girls in British society is neither accepted by, nor recognised by the Islamic, non- white. non- Europeans who are colonising Britain. Their culture, traditions and presence has no place in Britain, and the existence of Muslim grooming gangs is evidence of these facts.

BMWD - British Movement Women's Division, 'The Vixens', are currently running an extensive propaganda campaign against the grooming gangs and all aspects of the decades long grooming gang scandals. BMWD has produced a range of stickers and leaflets high-lighting the evils of the organised sexual abuse of children, especially under age British girls.
Notwithstanding the restrictions of the Covid-19 lockdown in Britain, the BMWD campaign is continuing on-line and through social media.
This campaign is also being supported through other British Movement media outlets including via the BM pod-cast 'Under the Sunwheel' and via the BM on-line electronic newspaper 'The Emblem'.

The victims of this abuse are not receiving the help that they need.

The victims of this horrific sexual abuse by Muslim grooming gangs are being continuously let down by the police and social services. The government have allocated £12 million to funding these services and yet the sheer scale of abuse cases would mean each victim would only receive a mere £48 a year. To say this simply isn't enough would be an absurd understatement.

To further rub salt in the wound, the perpetrators of these unspeakable crimes are claiming legal aid in the hundreds of thousands of pounds. The utterly outrageous sum of £500k was given in legal aid to the Rotherham brothers (Arshid, Basharat and Bannaras Hussain) after pleading poverty, despite "running a petrol station, takeaways and an egg farm that supplies supermarkets, alongside owning a number of properties," whereas their 50 victims of their horrific abuse have received next to nothing.

These men should have been executed by our Government for their crimes, but instead they were rewarded.

Children need to be taught about the dangers of Muslim grooming gangs through schools and through their parents.

Young children in the UK are at high risk of being groomed through social media sites and chat rooms by paedophiles and gangs, though it is often through befriending young girls in person that grooming gangs take hold of these children. Schools, and parents, need to be more direct in teaching our children about the dangers of grooming gangs and the dangers of Pakistani men who want to be-friend them. There is no room for "political correctness" in these matters, or in any matter, where our children are concerned. It is clear that schools cannot be relied on to teach our children about these potential dangers and so we must be clear with them ourselves.

The Implications of the Covid-19 Pandemic

So Many Theories - So Many Opinions

One significant outcome of the Covid-19 crisis in the United Kingdom has been the surge in interest by people from all walks of life and all political stances on what is really going on in regard to the origins of the Coronavirus; the role of the Chinese government, the actions of assorted governments across the world; the global role of international NGO's, like the World Health Organisation, and the role of unelected globalist figures like Bill Gates.

The outpouring of theories and opinions hostile to World Government on social media has been truly astounding, as has the rapid response of international media companies like Facebook to censor and delete hostile postings, allegedly because these postings constituted 'Fake news'.

The mainstream media has been very quick to act as the voice of government and has urged the public to ignore "Fake news" and conspiracy theories.

Nevertheless, the distrust in the state, the distrust in international organisations has been from across the political spectrum, from the radical Left, the radical Right, from racial Nationalists to lone players like David Icke.

The questions; Who stands to gain from the global scale of economic disruption?

Will the economies of the industrialised nations 'bounce back' when the lock downs end?

Why are so many governments so keen on developing a vaccine to Covid-19 that will allow state agencies to track those individuals who have been innoculated ?

Does the role out of 5G technology have anything to do with the Covid -19 pandemic at all?

So many theories - so many questions.

When the Covid-19 Emergency is Over What Then for Our Folk ?

In Britain the future looks uncertain as each mainstream political faction scrambles to exploit the eventual lifting of restrictions for their own ends. This is particularly true in Scotland where the Scottish National Party, the SNP has used every opportunity to distance Scotland from the rest of the United Kingdom and has conspired closely with Plaid Cymru in Wales and assorted minority groups in Northern Ireland to create a division from the Westminster based government.

In England and Wales the new police powers will not be given up easily and the police will seek excuses to hold onto the public order, surveillance and control measures for as long as possible if not permanently.

The multi-culturalists have made much propaganda on the back of the Corona-virus crisis, greatly exaggerating the role of immigrants and non-whites in the NHS and loudly declaring that somehow the White British population is forever in the debt of these people for "saving lives" and as "NHS heroes", thereby rewriting the need for immigrants settling in Britain, based on the premise that "we can't do without them".

Finally the high death rate amongst the so-called 'BAME" population, (Black, Asian, Minority Ethnic) is being used by the political Left and the multi-culturalists to demand special recognition for the non-whites in Britain and as evidence of 'their sacrifice' in the epidemic.

The Looming Threat Of A New World Order

One frightening outcome of the Covid-19 crisis has been the role of global NGO's linked to self-styled international philantropist organisations, such as The World Health Organisation (WHO), Bill Gates (Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation), and lurking in the background has been the shadow of United Nations agenda 21.

Early into the emergency, former British Prime Minister Gordon Brown called for 'world government to deal with the crisis on a global level.

That says a lot about Gordon Brown's internationalist position and raises many questions as to how he dealt with the British economy during his role as a Labour government Chancellor of the Exchequer, and later as Prime Minister of a Labour government.

Here in Britain the response of a supposedly right-wing Conservative government to the emergency was riddled with elements of leftist state control; the extensive police powers used to guarantee public compliance with 'lock down rules', the state control of the economy and the sudden release of funds to cover wages of those workers on 'furlough', the sudden emergence of a Home Office Rapid Response Unit to monitor the internet and social media in order to counter so-called conspiraracy theories and alternative news sources. A globalist response was demanded from US based internet and socoal media providers, so that unwanted pod-casts and alternative news stories could be blocked and removed from Facebook, Twitter and Google.

The international nature of the search for a vaccine has seen a massive trans-Atlantic release of funds, millions of US dollars to cover research and manufacture of a vaccine, not by governments, but by multi-billionnaires and US based corporate interests.

The warning signs are there. The globalists have been emboldened by the opportunities presented to them by the Coronavirus crisis and their key players have stepped forward to seize the opportunities.

Similarly the Chinese government and its business partners have targetted Australia for expansionist investing and the purchasing of struggling Australian companies.

The treat is very real and the signs are there.

The New World Order is starting to emerge from the shadows.

The Onslaught of Multi-Culturalism

The Corrosion of British Culture, Heritage and Traditions.

Way back in the 1970's, Left-wing academics and organisations began to challenge organised resistance to what was known at the time as "coloured immingration" into Britain, by declaring the United Kingdom to be a 'multi-racial society".

This was a deliberate tactic to shift public opinion away from considering the non-white incomers as immigrants and to re-shape public attitudes towards accepting the non-white communities as being a permanent element in the British population.

Pro-immigrant and anti-racist organisations began to tout the slogan "Here to Live - Here to Stay".

A blatant attempt to silence opposition to continued Third World immigration into the UK by brainwashing the British public into accepting that immigration was now a fact of life and those who opposed it were not only out of touch with modern life but were also fighting against a 'done deal'.

The leftist propaganda campaign was stepped up in the 1990's to declare that Britain was now a "multi-cultural society", not only was the permanent population of the UK now 'multi-racial' but it was also made up of many faiths, many cultures and many (imported) traditions.

The old liberal claim that generations of so-called 'new Britons' descended from immigrants who had settled in Britain in the 1950's and 1960's would be fully integrated into British society was quietly dropped. The liberal idea that these black and brown new-comers would gradually drop their native customs and cultures and raise their children to fully adopt British culture, customs, dress codes and belief systems was proven to be false as entire neighbourhoods in major urban centres became colonised and changed to reflect the cultures and customs of the now dominant immigrant populations.

Multi-cultural Britain became the mantra of the Left and the liberal opinion-shapers and the media.

By the second decade of the 21st Century, reality was of course very different and the lack of integration. the rise of Islamist terrorism, and the continuing flow of non-whites into Britain forced the Conservative Prime Minister of the day, David Cameron to declare that as a social policy "multi-culturalism has failed."

This was a rare statement of fact and truth by a British Prime Minister and yet the mainstream media, left-wing academics, the Labour Party, Liberal Democrats and all the assorted leftist movers and shakers have ignored this reality and persist to pursue this One-World dream no matter how clearly that multi-culturalism is destroying British culture, and is replacing our traditions. Just as surely as the rising numbers of non-white colonists in Britain are replacing the indigenous White British population.

A mock up film poster from last year. The Prime Minister is no longer Theresa May but the implications remain the same. What future for Britain's capital city when the White British are now officially a racial minority in Greater London and an increasing non-white population now dominates the city and its central boroughs.

LONDON HAS FALLEN

How many times has this statement been used by British racial Nationalist organisations to describe the shifting ethnic makeup of Britain's capital city? Now this idea has become the nightmare reality of modern Britain, the decline of the White British population in London has dropped below the point of no return. The so-called BAME, the 'Black, Asian, Minority Ethnic' population are now the majority in Britain's capital city. London is effectively only British by name, in reality it is an international city with an international population.

In truth - 'LONDON HAS FALLEN'.

On page 13 of this issue of Broadsword there is an article titled " The White British - A Minority By 2060." Which is more of an update on previous Broadsword articles about the rising population of non-whites in Britain and the declining and ageing indienous White British population.

Coronavirus
The Toxic Gift of a Globalist World

Covid -19 Is It Just Another Part of the Globalist Agenda?
Many conspiracy theories are circulating about the origins of the Coronavirus, and its place in the world. The number of conspiracy theories which are being applied to this emergency would fill volumes and there is not enough room in a single issue of Broadsword to even scratch the surface of the subject.
So Broadsword recommends that those who have the time and the patience and the interest to go on-line and read up on the following.

The Club of Rome.
United Nations Article 21.
The Open Society Foundation
The Rockerfeller Foundation.
The Bilderberger Group.
The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.
The Tony Blair Institute for International Change.

Plus any on-line information about 5G including the links to the Chinese government and some of the World Government organisations listed above.

* Expect many of the sites relating to these topics to being subject to unexplained removal by the mainstream internet companies. This is information that the Globalists do not want you to know about.

Reject Multi-Culturalism

Although Covid-19 is forcing a lock-down of entire populations, especially in Italy, Spain and France, there are still squatter camps full of illegal immigrants. and undocumented asylum-seekers in the Greek islands and along the northern shores of France and Belgium.
Many of these illegal migrants have declared their intentions to avoid being quarantined in Belgium or France and remain determined to enter Britain by whatever methods they can.
In spite of government restrictions, the self-appointed ‘refugee support’ organisations based in southern England continue to hand out food, blankets and sleeping-bags to those gathered in tents and shelters outside Dunkirk and Calais.
If and when these “refugees’ arrive in Britain, it is only another stop along the way for them. A place to earn enough money to send back to whichever Third World country they have travelled from, yet another stop along the way to try to bring family and other relatives across to join them.
Many do not think of Britain as a whole, they just know about LONDON. That is their objective.
An international city where they can settle in amongst many hundreds like themselves, a place to claim ‘asylum’, to get a place to live, to earn money, free medical care and if they are young enough. it is possible to get a free education.
Little wonder they all want to come to LONDON.
Covid-19 has not stopped the numbers of illegal immigrants trying to reach Britain. It has just slowed down the rate of flow.

THE WHITE BRITISH
A Racial Minority in Britain by 2060 ?

The triumph of the Coudenhove-Kalergi Plan in the British Isles ?
The Great Replacement becomes a fact not a theory.

The mainstream media both in Britain and in Europe spends a good deal of its self-styled 'anti- Far-Right' pronouncements decrying the concept of 'The Great Replacement'.
Liberal and left-wing journalists refuse to accept that such a population shift, linked to a deliberate programme of social engineering, could possibly exist.
This is not just a 'conspiracy theory', the evidence is right there before our eyes, the surplus populations of Africa, Asia and the Middle East, there are hundreds of thousands of men (mostly), women and children displaced by war, poverty and natural disasters towards Europe. Large numbers see Europe and Britain as a 'promised land'.

In previous issues of Broadsword, the Coudenhove-Kalergi Plan has been examined in detail, but it is enough to say the the 'C-K Plan' was first outlined in the 1930's and is both internationalist and globalist before its time, laying out the foundations for the future borderless European Union and the plan for an eventual Federation of Europe. The 'C-K Plan' made it clear that a future Europe would be a federation of open-border states, answerable to a central, federal government, drawing the unskilled workforce for its industries and services from Africa and Asia.
In later years political internationalists have decided that the domination of mainland Europe, Britain and Ireland by a White population needs to be challenged and that mass immigration from the Third World will eventually force that situation to change.

In September 2000 the 'Observer' newspaper carried a major article titled " UK whites will be minority by 2100".
This bold statement by a left-leaning Sunday newspaper was based on calculations from information available at the time. Looking back to 1991. when just over 3 million non-whites were living in the United Kingdom, roughly 6% of the overall population.
Since 2000, the situation has rapidly changed and the original estimation has jumped forward to the year 2060, an enormous forty year leap.

2016: The Cantle Report stated troubling statistics...
Greater London : - the overall White population had fallen by 600,000
the non-white population had increased by 1.2 million.

What now is the situation in 2020 ?
What will be the situation in 2030 ?

Is This To Be The End Of The British?

Are centuries of history, tradition, culture and heritage to be wiped out within a few decades?
Is this decline inevitable? Are the British to face a total demise within our homeland?
The downfall of an entire people, not just the Anglo-Saxon English, but the Celtic nations of the Welsh, Scottish and Northern Irish too.
Where London leads, the rest of the nation follows.
Looking at the population of London a grim picture emerges of the White British as an ethnic minority.
A similar fate faces other great urban centres; Leicester, Slough, Bradford, Birmingham.
Huge tracts of Greater Manchester will follow, setting a pattern for Bristol, Cardiff, Swansea and Glasgow.
Our Folk must wake up and we must act before it is too late.
The clock is ticking.

OUR ANCESTORS

Our History, Our Heritage, Our Traditions

THAT IS IDENTITY POLITICS

Defining Our Folk

A Folk is defined by its ancestral ties to their homeland, a centuries old bond of blood and soil, where countless generations have worked the land, fed it with their blood, sweat and tears. Defended their homeland, built their homes, given their bones to it and set down the roots of their Folk over many hundreds, if not thousands of years.

The political Left and the liberal champions of multi-culturalism hate what they term, “blood and soil nationalism” because they know that the Third World colonisers that they champion as ‘BAME British’ can never share in that bond, can never be part of that belonging and understanding.
They can never share in our sense of Folk.
They cannot share in our spiritual connection to our homeland. To the non-whites our ancient places and monuments are a mere curiousity and link to something they do not understand.

Citizenship must be defined by ethnicity and blood ties to the Nation, not by legislation giving rights to residency on British soil. Being British must be defined by ethnicity and heritage, just as being a citizen of any European country must be defined.
Identity has to be a clasification based on race, heritage and blood ties to the homeland.

Consider this;

“ When you see a clear, fresh stream or river, think of our ancestors - a moving stream of people handing down the torch of Life , from father to son, mother to daughter, so that the beauty of our national life might be illuminated by the laughter of children, love of families and the heartbeat of a culture and a faith that will never die.”

Taken from an article in ‘Rising’ published in 1998 by The Legionary Press.

The above article drew on an older British Nationalist tradition where rural culture and ‘folkways’ were at the heart of an anti-urban movement.
Broadsword recognises that such traditions have their place in guiding the creation of a Folkish state, but realistically a modern NS movement must be equally prepared to function in a post-industrial urban setting.

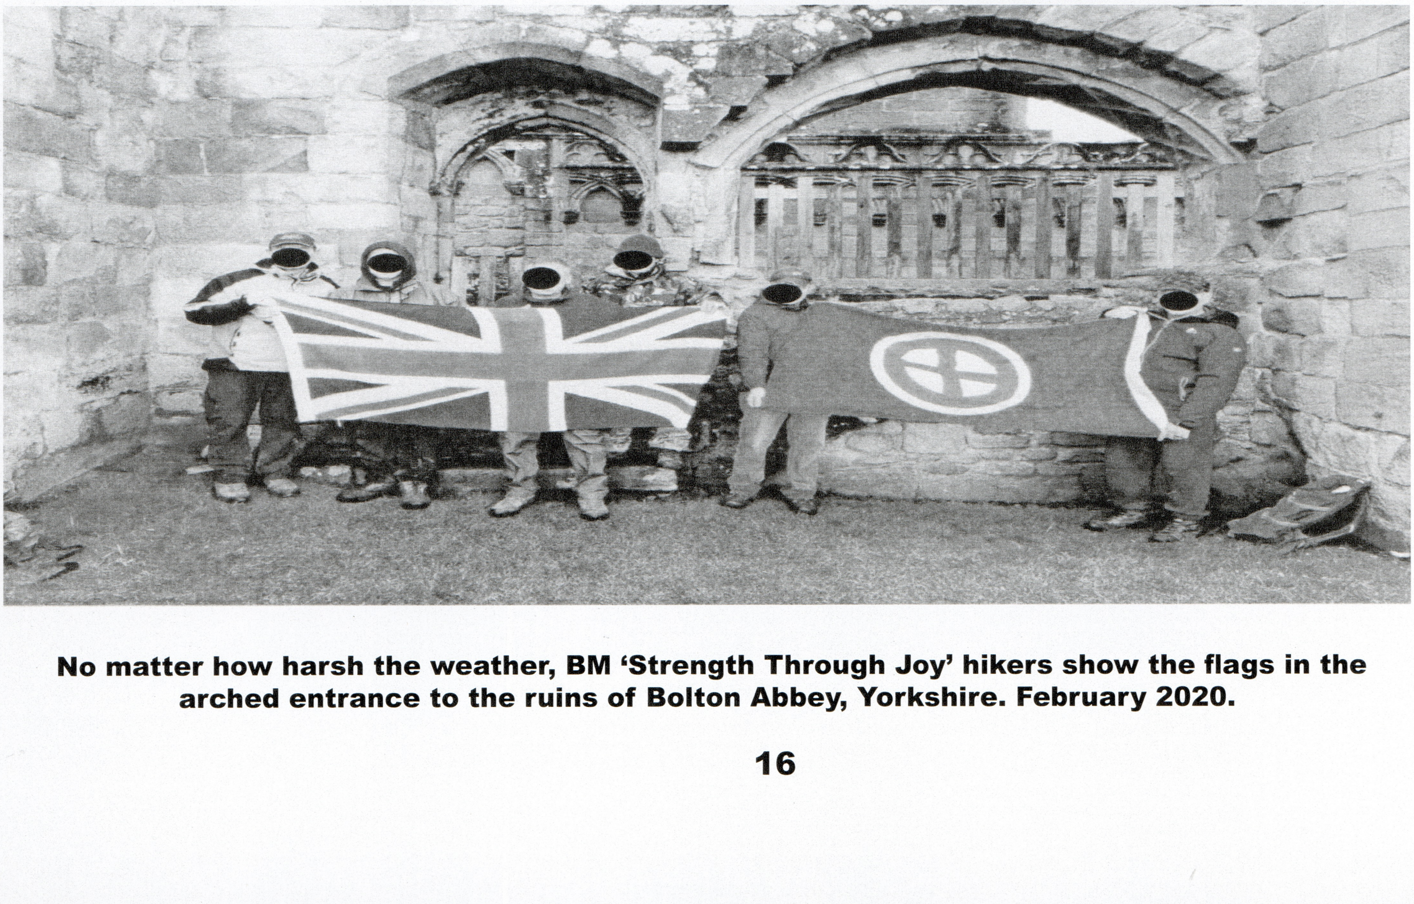
Strength Through Joy

Strength Through Joy
A National Socialist outlook on physical activity and British culture and heritage.

Strength Through Joy combines a range of outdoor activities, physical challenges, sports, heritage and cultural visits. The objective of Strength Through Joy is that the range of activities is geared to different age groups, levels of ability and stamina.

Some Strength Through Joy activities are by their design physically and mentally challenging. Other events are geared to being family friendly or more of a social event, designed to offer comradeship and entertainment.

Strength Through Joy operates around the year and is seeking to expand its range of activities to all regions of Britain. The organised visits to cultural and historic sites offers an opportunity for both adults and children to experience aspects of our culture, heritage and history as well as learning more about our ancient past.



No matter how harsh the weather, BM 'Strength Through Joy' hikers show the flags in the arched entrance to the ruins of Bolton Abbey, Yorkshire. February 2020.

Strength Through Joy

"From the perspective of the race, the loch is the folk spirit that beckons us to its rocky shores. Self knowledge will only come by divesting ourselves of all alien values and finding an affinity of spirit with others of our kind. Only thus is a lovee of nation and race a reality."

Tony Williams. NSM. 1998.

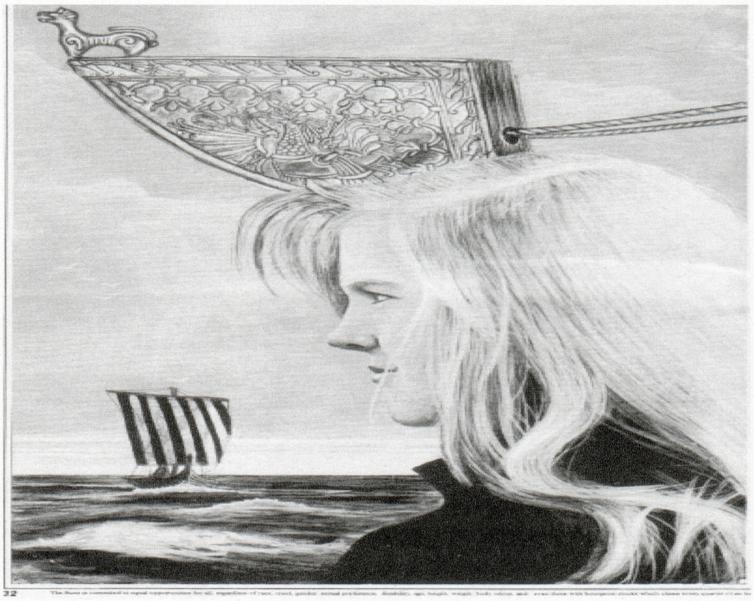
The Call of the Ancestors

In a recent episode of the British Movement pod-cast, 'Under the Sunwheel' episode 23, Benny made the observation that critics and opponents of modern National Socialism and racial Nationalism often portray our activists and our supporters being uncultured and disconnected from the history and heritage of our ancestors and fore-bearers. Self-styled anti-racists always fall back on a stereotype image of our activists being uneducated, urban dwellers with no knowledge of our heritage and culture. This is something that Benny challenged and recalled many ancient sites he had personally visited in Europe, the ancient ruins of both Greek and Roman origins across many countries in southern Europe. Benny pointed out that he and other British NS comrades were taken a tour of these sites as a guest of European NS activists who were proud of their nation's heritage and culture. Likewise he expressed his own appreciation for both the European comrades pride in their history and heritage and his own admiration for those symbols of shared Aryan culture.

Here in the United Kingdom, one of the key features of the British Movement programme 'Strength Through Joy' is to combine outdoor hikes and long distance walks with a visit to historial sites and an appreciation of those ruins or monuments to British history and traditions. Old battlefields, monoliths, stone circles and standing stones, ancient castles and pre-Christian sacred sites are all worth visting and understanding both from a sense of history of our ancestors and Folk as well as a spiritual connection with the roots of our Nation and heritage.

One thing that the Third World colonisers of Britain can never share is the sense of connection that we as British National Socialists and racial Nationalists have with the symbols of our ancestors, the landmarks and monuments they left us as their legacy and our bond with our homeland as part of Blood and Soil identity.

'Under the Sunwheel' pod-casts can be found on-line on BitChute or on Archive.



BLOOD and SOIL

Environment and Nature Conservation A National Socialist Perspective.

In recent months much has been made in the national news media of the activities of the environmental protests by 'Extinction Rebellion', an organisation heavily dominated by fringe left-wing and anarchist groups.

Many times in the pages of Broadsword magazine we have stressed the racial Nationalist and National Socialist roots of so-called 'Green politics', and the Left-wing infiltration and subsequent domination of environmental politics since the 1960's.

The high profile currently enjoyed by groups like ' Extinction Rebellion' is symptomatic of this leftist domination and their distorted climate agenda.

Climate change is a natural process in the Earth's long history, but pollution and destruction by corporate industries is not. As National Socialists BM is opposed to the rape of natural resources by international companies.

Protection of Britain's countryside and wildlife is part of the National Socialist Blood and Soil agenda.

In future issues of Broadsword the subject of Britain's environment, natural history and nature conservation will feature in a series of articles on so-called 'Green politics' and a British National Socialist approach to the subject area.

Building the NS Future:

First the Grassroots Mass Movement. Then the British NS State

From the Flames that End an Epoch Rises the Idea of the Future.

 this article was written just prior to the Covid-19 lock down in March 2020 and the ideas and strategies outlined here are made in the assumption that political campaigning conditions in the United Kingdom will return to some level of normality later in the year.

BUILDING THE GRASS ROOTS MASS MOVEMENT

It goes without saying that the building of a future National Socialist state in Britain will be a long haul development. British Movement activists and campaigners cannot expect a swift and sudden victory with an overnight transformation of government and all its offices to a functioning modern National Socialist model.

The first priority is to build the grassroots mass movement, developed from the radical political network which is the foundation of any political and social mass movement.

Many detractors of British Movement's extra - parliamentary position across the spectrum of British Nationalist, argue that only through the electoral system can racial Nationalism ever hope to gain sufficient influence to effect change.

However this insistence on electoral activity ignores the glaringly obvious truth that the political mainstream in Britain has abslutely no intention of ever allowing a racial Nationalist party to gain ground through the current system. The Establishment has left no stone unturned since the 1970's in finding ways to prevent such electoral success.

The brief flourish of electoral gains by the BNP in local government elections and the gaining of two MEP's by the BNP, was a step too far for the British establishment and the loopholes which allowed the BNP its limited successes will now be recognised and firmly closed.

British Movement argues that the only way forward is to build outside the electoral system. To develop an effective national network of political activists and to operate within communities to build a solid and functioning grass roots organisation that can exert influence, can generate public support and offer a genuine alternative to the state sponsored agencies. That is the ground on which to build a grassroots mass movement, creating first a functioning NS sub-culture, a counter culture and political network which can operate legally and effectively.

Taking the starting point as a pressure group and as a campaigning organisation, developing new propaganda systems and social support groups is the way forward. By providing an effective alternative to the political mainstream is the route to building a future mass movement. Only when the organisation and the weight of numbers and influence is in place can the movement look towards challenging the existing political parties on an equal footing.

BUILDING A NEW ECONOMIC FRAMEWORK

A National Socialist state cannot be realised by merely tinkering with the existing economic structure of the United Kingdom. The current British economy is dominated by a globalist, monopoly capitalist structure linked in to the City of London and international banks and overseas stock exchanges.

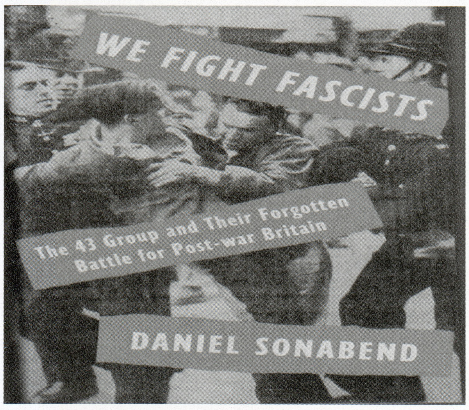
This structure and dependency on foreign finance, currency and share trading has to change.

A future British National Socialist state will transform the economic structure of the nation, breaking the stranglehold of the major corporate banks. . A radical economic and political programme will be overseen by a governmental executive with the powers to implement dynamic leadership and the authority to implement rapid change.

A new order will govern the nation's economic and fiscal structures based on production potential rather than the allocation of business loans, with the state rather than the global financial markets directing the structured development of a full employment economy,

Debt, in terms of national government borrowing, local government borrowing and the loan and mortgage arrangements applied to businesses of all sizes and scales has to be radically changed.

Future articles in this series will look into these topics in much greater depth.



WE FIGHT FASCISTS
The 43 Group and Their Forgotten Battle for Post-war Britain
DANIEL SONABEND

BOOK REVIEW

‘ We Fight Fascists’ The 43 Group and Their Forgotten Battle for Post-war Britain.

By Daniel Sonabend

As the author’s name suggests to the tutored eye, Daniel Sonabend is Jewish. his stated aim for writing this book was his meeting in March 2012 with the surviving 43 Group activist Morris Beckman, and a conversation with his friend Luke Brandon Field about a documentary on the life of celebratory hair-dresser Vidal Sassoon, who had been an original member of the 43 Group. Sonabend was then to discover that his grandfather John had been actively involved with the 43 Group and its activities across London in the immediate post-war period.

This book offers a potted history of British Fascism across the 1930’s and into the early war years, with of course much focus on alleged anti-Jewish violence and much celebrated Jewish anti-fascist resistance, the Battle of Cable Street and similar. Sonabend does of course present a very slanted view of Sir Oswald Mosley, the BUF and other leading figures in both the pre-1940 and post-1945 period. The book glorifies the Jewish fighters against ‘fascism’ and seeks to justify much of their actions while denigrating their opponents.

In May 1940, Defence Regulation 18B had outlawed the British Union of Fascists, the Imperial Fascist League, the National Socialist League, and a number of other organisations. After the immediate end of the war, these prohibitions were clearly no longer a matter of ‘National Security’, so in April 1946 the government’s Committee on Fascism issued its final report to the Cabinet, stating that;

“ We have considered whether an attempt should be made to prohibit the organisation of fascist parties or the propagation of fascist doctrines. We consider that such an attempt would be difficult to defend in principle and ineffective in practice. An attempt to silence a political minority because its views are abhorrent to the majority would be a departure from a valuable tradition...... and it also reported;
“ We consider that, if it is firmly enforced, the existing law affords adequate protection against the emergence of a strong and dangerous fascist movement in this country.”

Not surprisingly the network of Jewish organisations in Britain were not happy about this policy statement by government because they had lobbied hard to ensure that ‘Fascism’ in all its forms would be permanently outlawed under British law. The founding of the 43 Group at Maccabi House, in West Hampstead, London, a large property which officially housed the Maccabi World Union, an international Jewish sports organisation, but allowed other ‘community groups’ to use its premises, took place in the summer of 1946.

The 43 Group official policies were laid out in a pamphlet widely circulated amongst Jewish organisations and Jewish social groups from mid-1946 onwards, stating that the 43 Group existed to carry out the following;

1. To advocate the immediate passing of legislation to make Fascist and Anti-Semitic organisations illegal.
2. To combat actively all Fascist and Anti-Semitic Organisations by:
   a) Opposing their activities.
   b) Publicly exposing them.
3. To awaken and unite all sections of the public against the menace of Fascism.
4. To develop an organisation capable of communal defence.
5. To work and cooperate with all the other bodies combating Fascism and Anti-Semitism.

The 43 Group agenda was carried forward after it disbanded by former members and supporters into its successor organisation the ‘62 Group’ and later into the ‘Searchlight’ organisation and its magazine and assorted off-shoots; into the Anti-Nazi League, in the 1970’s and passed onwards into assorted groups and formations such as Unite Against Fascism, the Anti-Racist Alliance and in recent decades by Hope Not Hate.

Many readers of Broadsword will recognise the tactics and strategies developed by the 43 Group and “We Fight Fascists” openly admits its targeted acts of violence, the Group’s manipulation of situations to advance its agenda, the total criminality of many of its actions, not just violence but also breaking and entering, burglary, theft and blackmail. The 43 Group was financially supported by a number of wealthy Jewish individuals, but was not adverse to using underhand and fraudulent methods to dupe rich Jewish businessmen into writing substantial cheques for 43 Group funds.

There are also some interesting insights into the 43 Group’s underhand activities planting informers and infiltrators into targeted organisations, not always Jewish, usually those who did not look Jewish, “Caught off guard by his Aryan looks”, but also non-Jewish anti-fascists. Sonabend makes much of this tactic and of course makes it clear that the “fascists’ were easily out-witted by the 43 Group ‘spy-masters’.

The Writings of Colin Jordan

Broadsword continues this series of articles examining the political writings of post-1945 British National Socialist activist Colin Jordan.

Reproduced below both sides of the NSM leaflet from 1962; "Why I Am A National Socialist". The wording reflects Colin Jordan's personal ideological position at the time, a position he did not change over the passing years. The language is understandably dated now, but illustrates the state of Britain at the time, just as the so-called 'Swinging Sixties' were beginning.

 Modern readers might reflect that such a leaflet would probably be illegal today.

Why I am a National Socialist

... AND WHY YOU SHOULD BE TOO

by Colin Jordan

DEMOCRACY, the harm it has done and the harm it is doing to Britain, has made me a National Socialist, bringing me to see in that system which it has opposed and defamed so frantically, which rejuvenated Germany 30 years ago, the only means of saving Britain from ruination today.

In the 1930's, when I was a boy at school, our country was the head of the greatest empire the world has ever seen, containing within its bounds almost every material resource it required, and virtually capable of self-sufficiency. Her natural ally was her great brother-nation of Germany. Together they would have been invincible: no power, Communist or Coloured, could have jeopardized them. United in peace, Britain, applying herself to the betterment of her people, could have achieved a fabulous prosperity, alongside the reborn Germany with its massive social and economic achievements.

Instead, our democratic politicians, responsive to Jewish pressure, fulminated against Germany, and sent us to war against her in 1939 for no adequate British reason whatsoever in the greatest act of folly in our history, and for 6 years British lives and resources were thrown away on a colossal scale in democracy's mad war. This, the politicians pretended, was necessary to preserve our freedom and our heritage. Since then our freedom in the full sense, our heritage, the true interests of our nation have been monstrously betrayed by these politicians of democracy.

As a direct result of the war, in which democratic Britain allied herself to the Soviet Union against anti-Communist Germany, Communism took over Eastern Europe and became the menace it is today to Britain and the rest of Western Europe.

Our empire, the monumental creation of our forefathers for our power and prosperity, has been given up piece by piece, and, as the final degredation, we have today the spectacle of our present misrulers striving to force our White kinsfolk in Rhodesia to submit to Black domination. Britain has relinquished her headship of empire and her national sovereignty for membership of and subordination to the cosmopolitan United Nations Organisation, dominated by the Afro-Asian element, and devoted to concepts of racial equality and racial mixture inimical to the security of the White people of Britain and elsewhere.

The Alien Take-over

While democratic Britain has been increasingly subjected to alien influences on the outside, internally the years since the war have seen the massive increase of Jewish influence over the economic, cultural and political life of the country, despite the fact that the Jews have acquired a state of their own, Israel, during this period. At the same time as the upholders of democracy have countenanced this usurpation as a matter of principle, they have allowed, encouraged and promoted the invasion of Britain by Coloured immigrants to the extent of now over a million, and with every sign of continuing indefinitely as an essential expression of democracy, which stands for racial amalgamation and firmly against any idea of preserving this land for its White, Anglo-Saxon stock to whom it truly belongs.

This progressive alien take-over of Britain has proceeded in the general atmosphere of decadence which is the result of democratic thought and practice. Our children, given no inspiring patriotic ideals and disciplined training in service to the nation while at school, leave school in the majority of cases to drift aimlessly, succumbing to the degeneracy of "pop" and jazz music, pep pills, and the habits of the beatnik; and expressing their frustrations in vandalism and hooliganism. The adult population, ceaselessly bombarded with the sentiments of race mixture and egoistic materialism from press, radio and T.V., has largely developed an attitude of servile acceptance of the growing influx and ascendancy of the alien, and an indifference to the nation as a whole and its future.

The Revolt against Democracy

This is what democracy has done to Britain, and, in revolt against it all, I am a National Socialist. I believe that, if there is anything worth fighting for, it is to preserve my own race in possession and control of my homeland, and to see that our resources of all kinds are used to the full for the betterment of our own nation. That belief is the very basis of National Socialism. It inspired the great revolt in Germany in the 1930's which raised a beaten, demoralised and impoverished nation to a splendour of united idealism and national achievement never before known, yet misrepresented by the lie machines of democracy on a scale unprecedented in history. Only the same belief in our race and nation, the same awareness of the need for a whole change of system and a new way of life in pursuit of that belief, and the same iron determination to fight to victory regardless of the opposition can save Britain from the slow death which is democracy, and make her great again and greater than ever before.

If you see things as I do, and believe as I do, then you are at heart a National Socialist also, and, if you are, it is your duty to declare yourself, and to come forward and take your place in the Battle for Britain.

GOTHIC RIPPLES

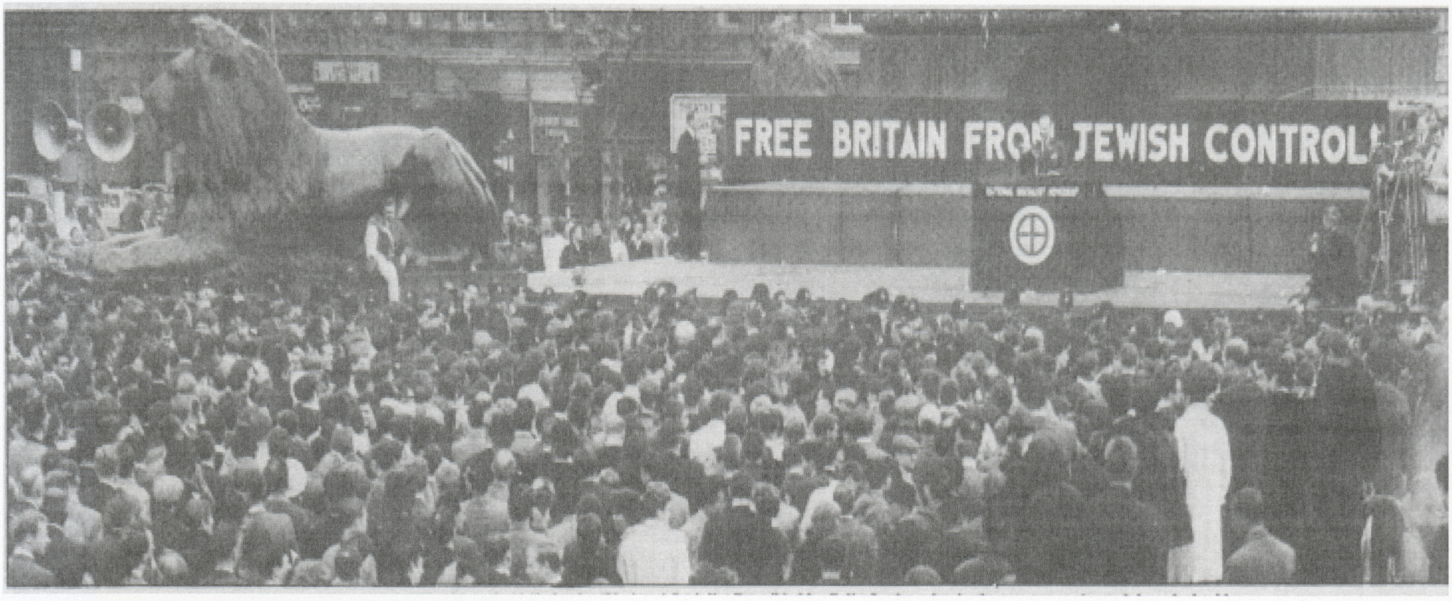
From semi-retirement at his farmhouse in North Yorkshire, Colin Jordan continued to write and campaign for National Socialism.

In 1979 he decided to launch a political news-letter, and in homage to his mentor Arnold Leese, Colin entitled his news-letter 'Gothic Ripples' after Leese's 1950's bulletin of the same name.

'Gothic Ripples' was published roughly quarterly until the Winter of 2007, after which his declining health prevented further issues apart from the occasional 'supplement" news-sheet until his death in April 2009.

Originally intended as a commentary on British and world events from a British National Socialist perspective, \Gothic Ripples' became an outlet for ideological ideas and strategies which Colin Jordan hoped would stimulate discussion and development across British racial Nationalist organisations and within kindred organisations across the world.

To this end he began including a series of essays in September 1994 entitled 'The Way Ahead". These essays ran until March 1998, culminating in the 'Way Ahead' Part 7 - " Starting the Revolution."



FREE BRITAIN FROM JEWISH CONTROL

THE VANGUARD

Colin Jordan sought to generate a new spirit of dedication and activism amongst a younger generation of British National Socialists by launching a concept he called " The Vanguard".

He hoped that when, not if, the 'Vanguard' model was established across Britain, then by natural progression the concept would be adopted by NS activists across the White World, in Europe and North America, in Australia and New Zealand and where possible in White enclaves in South Africa.

He had originally put forward the idea in issue 27 of 'Gothic Ripples' as part of a series of essays entitled " The Way Ahead". responding to interest in these ideas he wished to further develop the 'Vanguard' strategy and stated that from September 1995 onwards 'Gothic Ripples' would function in part as "the Voice of the Vanguard." offering ideological guidance and direction for political campaigns.

Colin Jordan hoped that the 'Vanguard' would become an activist elite of individuals who were totally dedicated to the NS cause.

The application form asked the reader;

" How Do You Match Up ?

If you are a political part-timer, a half-hearted hobbyist, an armchair warrior content to give just a little to the cause now and again so as to be able to claim commitment on the cheap, read no further ! This is definitely not for you !

If you not only believe there is a life or death struggle for the Aryan race going on right now, but want to be in it as a regular worker and fighter on active service, accepting the high standards of an elite task force instead of muddling mediocrity of some ordinary political organisation, then our bulletin GOTHIC RIPPLES, the voice of the vanguard is definitely something for you !

BOOK REVIEW -
" We Fight Fascist" The 43 Group and Their Forgotten Battle for Post-war Britain.
by Daniel Sonabend.

The 43 Group liked to consider itself both a street fighting 'defence' organisation and an 'intelligence gathering operation', as one self-styled veteran called it a "spy-agency". However there were occasions when ths strategy went badly wrong. One non-Jewish infiltrator that the 43 Group managed to embed in the offices of Sir Oswald Mosey's post-war Union Movement was a young woman called Wendy Turner. Sonabend notes that,

" Wendy was not Jewish but was convinced to join by friends who knew that she was a staunch anti-fascist."

Wendy Turner was directed as a spy by 43 Group 'intelligence officer' Harry Bidney and her identity was a well kept secret until one fateful day,

" One day she was supposed to meet Harry Bidney in Villiers Street at the Lyons Corner House on the Strand, and unfortunately for her as she was walking down Villers Street ..... she came across four 43 Group women....... They caught her in Villers Street and beat her to a pulp."

This was a vicious, violent assault carried out by four 43 Group women against a single victim in broad daylight. Not surprisngly after this incident the 43 Group leadership never saw their spy Wendy Turner again, until 1978 when Harry Bidney tracked her down as a long term patient in a large mental hospital in Kent.

Wendy Turner was not the only 43 Group spy inside a fascist organisation to be attacked and beaten by their own side. The so-called "commandos" of the 43 Group on the streets of East London were often unaware of the identities of their own infiltrators and lashed out at anyone they perceived as a possible fascist.

Violence and subversion were a hallmark of the 43 Group, often carried out by so-called, " shtarkers' a Yiddish word for violent heavies. The 43 Group used ambush tactics, especially surprise attacks on lone individuals and sometimes forced their way into the homes or business premises of known opponents. Union Movement organiser Jeffrey Hamm was savagely beaten inside his own home by a 43 Group hit squad who forced their way through the door.

Daniel Sonabend records numerous instances of 43 Group violence and trickery, but seems to regard them as instances of bravery, triumph and cunning against an evil enemy.

Broadsword readers would find this book an interesting read as long as they keep in mind the background and heritage of the author. This book is not there to offer an accurate history of the period it covers but does offer useful insights into the attitudes and psychology of the men and women behind the 43 Group and the ideology and tactics they passed on to future anti-racist and anti-fascist organisations and activists. Methods and strategies still used by anti-racist organisations against racial Nationalists to this day.

Dear Broadsword

We are living in the most turbulent of times!
All working to our great advantage.
Civil unrest is highly likely - particularly in the inner cities. London is a particular danger spot.
Great resentment is building up against increasingly strict restrictions being imposed by the powers that be.
The Democratic System is under tremendous pressure.
Tanks on the streets ? What a wonderful image!

Personal Development as a National Socialist some thoughts by Kane: Written in late December 2019.

I have been thinking as we come up to Yule what I can do with regard to the Movement and my own personal development as a White man in the coming year.
I have the music gigs I do, the albums I have planned to release and the bands I support and work with, but it made me wonder what I can do personally. I have been thinking for a while about this. Lots of things have been going through my head, Ian's (Stuart) famous quote about joining a group personal to you but staying together, as tohether we are strong. I thought about the military and how they have Navy, Marnes, Army, Paras and Air Force, all very different but all going in the same direction. Then I thought about how giving up drinking would impact on me. I don't like the fact it is as havily taxed as it is and giving my personal money to a government structure I disagree with, the personal fact I am getting older andcan't really take on the extra calories like I did when I was younger and still stay as lean and in as good condition as I should be, would be and could be when I train as hard as I do. I also thought from a personal point of view I didn;t like the fact it can cloud my vision. This is in no way a judgement of those who enjoy a drink, I certainly have over the years and still do. (Till January 2020), this is literally a personal thing.
I also thought, if I stop drinking will it make me a better White man generally ?
When I looked at it all, the answer was yes. It was also a big one when I thought...... if this makes me better, then the scene I am attached to demands it of me. So not only is this a personal decision now, but it takes on a bigger meaning. I must press the point, this is personal to me, and doesn't have an effect on my opinion of those who enjoy a drink, quite the contrary, please enjoy yourselves especially at the gigs I play, but it just made me think, what could you do that is personal to you that could make you feel that you will become better ? Better as an individual and as a member of our Movement?

WHAT WE LOVE
WHAT CULTURAL MARXISTS HATE

LONDON HAS FALLEN ?

Elsewhere in this issue of Broadsword there are articles considering the threat of multi-culturalism and the constantly rising population numbers of non-whites in Britain.
Recently one of British Movement's network of contacts brought to Broadsword's attention an on-line blog by an Asian journalist and anti-racist activist Ash Sakar. The short blog was put out on You Tube in the summer of 2016 (and has never been taken down). In the blog Ash Sakar is reporting on the findings of the 2016 Cantle Report and Professor Cantle's conclusions on social cohesion and racial tensions. Ask Sakar had given her blog the title " Against Integration" and not surprisingly voiced a lot of criticism about ingrained British 'racism'. However within Sakar's blog is a ten second clip where she considers the statistics for the population of London where the White British population had fallen by 600,000 and the Ethnic minority (BAME) population had risen by 1.2 million since the previous population census.
Ash Sakar could barely disguise her joy at these figures and gleefully told her audience.

" Yes lads we are winning!"

Little doubt there then that some left-wing, non-white activists actually celebrate the replacement of the White British by the rising tide of a non-white population.
